

---

Fan Market Registration

Posted by Jibii - 2007/01/24 15:51

---

When does registration for the Fan Market for this year's con open and when will we have new information regarding it?
Thanks!

=====

Re: Fan Market Registration

Posted by Titania - 2007/02/08 22:11

---

When does registration for the Fan Market for this year's con open and when will we have new information regarding it?
Thanks!

Patience, grasshopper -- we're still working out the details for all the con events this year! Once we have things hammered out, we'll post it to the site and make official announcements everywhere. Hopefully by the end of the month.

^__^

---

Re: Fan Market Registration

Posted by Jibii - 2007/02/09 00:24

---

That would have been nice to hear a month ago when I sent my first emailed inquiry.

But thank you very much. You're the first staff member to say *anything* to me.

---

Re: Fan Market Registration

Posted by Titania - 2007/02/09 05:31

---

That would have been nice to hear a month ago when I sent my first emailed inquiry.

But thank you very much. You're the first staff member to say *anything* to me.

I'm sorry your email didn't get prompt attention -- like many cons, we had staffing turnover in between conventions. This does sometimes lead to emails sitting unread until the new staffer is up to speed. Always check the Web site first for info - if it's not there, then contact the appropriate staffer to see when it'll be available.

---

Re: Fan Market Registration

Posted by Jibii - 2007/02/09 07:04

---

I'm sorry your email didn't get prompt attention -- like many cons, we had staffing turnover in between conventions. This does sometimes lead to emails sitting unread until the new staffer is up to speed. Always check the Web site first for info - if it's not there, then contact the appropriate staffer to see when it'll be available.

I emailed three staff members. Susan first because she's labeled as being in charge of the artists alley and I'd assumed the fan market was associated with that. A second email was sent to her a week later from one of my partners with the same question. That day I found out that Tracy was in charge of the fan market and so I emailed her and posted to the forum. Two weeks later I was frustrated by the lack of response from anyone and so I contacted Wendy.

I'm confused as to why *three* apparently key staff members have ignored my emails. Are these members no longer with you? And if they aren't, why are their names still on the current contact info?

---

Re: Fan Market Registration

I'm sorry your email didn't get prompt attention -- like many cons, we had staffing turnover in between conventions. This does sometimes lead to emails sitting unread until the new staffer is up to speed. Always check the Web site first for info - if it's not there, then contact the appropriate staffer to see when it'll be available.

I emailed three staff members. Susan first because she's labeled as being in charge of the artists alley and I'd assumed the fan market was associated with that. A second email was sent to her a week later from one of my partners with the same question. That day I found out that Tracy was in charge of the fan market and so I emailed her and posted to the forum. Two weeks later I was frustrated by the lack of response from anyone and so I contacted Wendy.

I'm confused as to why *three* apparently key staff members have ignored my emails. Are these members no longer with you? And if they aren't, why are their names still on the current contact info?

Jibii,

I assure you that Susan specifically is not ignoring emails. She just happens to be extremeley busy trying to smooth out stuff for ToA and then Yaoi-Con after that. Not to mention the fact that she is now trying to organize for at least two other sections of the convention while she finds staff members to. I just recently got an email back from her myself.

=====