

---

How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by McFlaren - 2007/07/30 16:43

---

Is it just sort of a 'sign up and you're in' thing?

Once I get to the con, who do I tell? Just find a staff and say, "I'm here for the auction?" and they'll tell me where to go?

That being said, can I sign up to be featured in the bingo event as well?

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Elysium - 2007/07/30 21:09

---

If you haven't already, you'll need to apply. You can apply Here: http://www.yaoicon.com/forms/form\_bishauction.html

I think you get an email from Isis though when you pass the 'preliminary' online application.

You can find a good informative thread about what to expect when your application has been approved here:
http://www.yaoicon.com/component/option,com\_forum/Itemid,198/page,viewtopic/t,65/highlight,bishounen+auction/

The auction has limited spaces available so if you apply early, they have plenty of time to weigh the pros and cons between you and the other Bishis. You'll want to submit your best photo. The better looking you are, the better your chances of approval are. Even if you're not chosen for the Auction, you may still participate in the other bishounen events such as the Bishi Bingo etc.

I think I might put together a FAQ on this topic since I don't see something like that already posted. ...may take a while though. XD

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Elysium - 2007/07/30 23:48

---

OK here's the prototype. :D Imma give it a run and see if anything needs to be changed.

Q: What are the requirements to be a Bishi?

A: You must be biologically/genetically/bonafide male. Some of us other Bishiâ€™s may ask you to validate your male junk, juuust to make sure. => Good charisma helps too!

Q: How do I apply as a Bishounen for the auction?

A: You can apply online here: http://www.yaoicon.com/forms/form\_bishauction.html

Alert! Just applying doesnâ€™t mean youâ€™ll be accepted. The more detailed you are in your application without giving too much information the better your chances are. As stated by Isis:

As the competition for slots get fiercer, the less likely we are to choose you if you just want to stand there on stage. The more detailed the description of your costume and performance are in your application, the more likely you are to be selected.

If we've never seen you before, that serves as your audition. If you don't feel confident that you will be prepared this time, what I would suggest is that you simply participate in other bishie related events, and just watch the auction and get an idea of what is expected.

Q: How do I know if I have been accepted for the Bishounen Auction?

A: Typically youâ€™ll receive an email from Isis in regards to your application. Whether you are, are not, or she needs more information for your approval. I believe itâ€™s normal for her to make her decision between 1-2 months before the convention. Make sure you give her an email that you check often when you apply. What helps Isis with her decision are various factors;

1 - Your looks. (Yes weâ€™re shallow. Weâ€™re BISHIâ€™S for crying out loud.)

2 - Your act. Be creative! (Your ability to draw in the crowd. If youâ€™re a horrible actor or youâ€™ve been going through puberty for the last 5-6 years and youâ€™re planning to sing, save yourself the embarrassment. Bishiâ€™s donâ€™t do things anyone be embarrassed aboutâ€”at least not in public.)

3 - A photo of you in the costume you anticipate to be used in your pre-auction performance. (Face it, if youâ€™re dressed as something undesirableâ€¦well, â€¦nuff said.)

---

4 â€œ The last and near final decision (I say near final because thereâ€™s always something you can do to get yourself hosed from the line up) is when you meet Isis in person at the convention. If, when you meet her and itâ€™s obvious you photoshopped your face 10 pounds because you thought youâ€™d be in shape by Yaoi Con, you risk rejection. Being a Bishi is also about being honest.

Q: I received the approval email from Isis YAY! So now that Iâ€™m a Bishi for the Auction, what can I expect? Are there any basic things to keep in mind?

A: You can expect a lot of things. However being a Bishi is not always just about YOU. Itâ€™s also about your â€œcustomer serviceâ€™ to the attendees.

Being a Bishounen is not just the auction and over. You will be on show for the entire weekend. Please be sure you want to dedicate this amount of time before you apply.

With that said, here are the highlights;

First and foremost, you can expect yourself to follow the Bishounen Code of Conduct. Yes, we have a code. (Arrr the Code, matey.) A short summary of â€œThe Codeâ€• can be found on the bottom portion of the online Bishi application that you agreed to when you clicked . A more detailed description can be found in the contract you sign with your buyer at the auction.

You can expect to have a lot of pictures taken of you at any event you participate in. So donâ€™t be camera-shy!

At Bingo, Auction, Pictionary, or any other Bishounen event, expect fans (girls and guys) to want to see you in your skibis. So you shouldnâ€™t be skibi-shy.

Expect to be on your best behavior. When a real life Bishi gets angry and makes a scene, itâ€™s not as hot as would be in the doujinshi version. (Remember what I said about Bishiâ€™s not doing embarrassing things? Temper tantrums are one of those things unless itâ€™s part of your character.)

A quote about a Bishi on stage at the Auction:

To put it simply, (itâ€™s about) attentionwhoring. You're the star - so milk it for what it's worth, wear your best/coolest outfit or cosplay and put on a show. While you could just sit there and look pretty, the audience gets more mileage if you have a skit, show off some tricks, work that hot body, etc., like tpod said. :wink: You want the audience to pay top dollar for the luxury of carting you around on their arm.

Q: Is being a Bishi safe?

A: I would have to say 200% safe. If youâ€™re getting harassed because someone is behaving inappropriately, youâ€™ll want to tell any of the staff. If you canâ€™t find the staff, find another Bishi! Weâ€™ll help you out. If no staff or Bishis are available, run to any other con attendee. Pick one that you like since s/he may usurp your contract since now you have a witness of the unacceptable behavior, and BAM! You instantly fall in love with them. I believe the offenders receive one warning. After that, their passes are revoked so as not to distract the Bishis from doing what they doâ€¦being beautiful!

As for being safe, yes. If you feel like you are being pressured to do something that would make you feel uncomfortable at ANY time, you may end the "date". Just find a Ycon staff member to assist you in this manner. We do not tolerate any sort of non-consensual advances. Of course the opposite is true as well. Bishies may not pressure their dates either.

How much does a Bishi typically go for?

Hereâ€™s an answer from one of our Ycon vets:

Don't really expect any specific range. There's a lot of factors that will determine how high and how quickly the bids go (not just physical appearance/costume!) but stage presence, how well the audience responds to the skit, and so forth. Though some competition among the boys does make them try harder. ;)

What is the highest bid so far?

Currently I believe it is about $1500, the act was stellar!

Lowest Bid?

With correction from Saya, Approx $40.

- Hiccups -

â€œI wasnâ€™t chosen for the auction. I guess I canâ€™t be a Bishi.â€•

---

Not so fast Negative Nancy! Hope lies in the quote below!

The good news is, even if you aren't chosen for the auction, there are other events during the weekend that we need Bishies for. We encourage you to participate in them as it lets us see what you can do. Think of it as an audition. And if you are a local and attend the local cons, come find us. We are happy to talk to you.

That's all I got for now. If I find other later, I'll be sure to add them in here. Any corrections that need to be done, let me know and I'll definately fix it.

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by McFlaren - 2007/07/31 23:32

---

Thanks a lot!

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NwPrW50uswg>

That's me in my outfit. If I don't make it to the auction, how can I get into bishi bingo?

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by bento_box_boy - 2007/08/09 01:59

---

well, according to that I failed horrably...u.u
no auctioning off Bento any time soon.

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Neko_Bazu - 2007/08/09 03:42

---

well, according to that I failed horrably...u.u
no auctioning off Bento any time soon.

You should probably give at least another month before assuming you were accepted or not - Isis is very busy and applications are still coming in, so nothing's cut-and-dried yet :D

(For what it's worth, based on your pic in another thread , I'd accept you!)

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by necrosound - 2007/08/12 03:26

---

yeah i hope i get accepted because i tried to sign up last time but ended up on the waiting list and just helped put the chairs out for some of the performers in the auciton. but i guess i still had fun at the dance since i still got girls coming up to me and saying they wished i was up for bids. i think i might need to send in a different pic though since i gave a normal pic of me in my street clothes it's not that bad but also it's the only one since my comp had to reboot and i lost all my pics :evil: but still i'm going to also look up the other events on this forum to see what they have for potential bishies

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by bento_box_boy - 2007/08/12 16:47

---

protip: photobucket works great for hosting pics XD
XD jk

---

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Gothkitti - 2007/08/12 16:52

---

Necrosound and Bento_box_boy:

To learn of other events, please feel free to check out the "Do you have what it takes to be a bishie?" thread (currently immediately below this thread) in this topic group. I have posted a link to the site where you can go and speak and be considered for the role of bishie at other con events but is especially necessary that you (and any other prospective newbies) sign up soon so we can feel you out, as it were. :] (If you're still on I'll PM you both, just in case)

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by bento_box_boy - 2007/08/12 21:37

---

..."feel you out"....XD

....wait, Las Vegas....I would soooooo flip if you are, or know a friend of mine that lives there...she goes by the online name Wawa

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Gothkitti - 2007/08/12 22:32

---

..."feel you out"....XD

....wait, Las Vegas....I would soooooo flip if you are, or know a friend of mine that lives there...she goes by the online name Wawa

Probably not. ^^;

I come from the SF Bay Area and moved out here last year. :p

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by bento_box_boy - 2007/08/12 22:35

---

explains the staff thing XD

i'm supposed to move to Texas later this year...closer to Ycon, but not enough >.<

=====

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Saya - 2007/08/16 16:33

---

OK here's the prototype. :D Imma give it a run and see if anything needs to be changed.

Q: What are the requirements to be a Bishi?

A: You must be biologically/genetically/bonafide male. Some of us other Bishiâ€™s may ask you to validate your male junk, juuust to make sure. => Good charisma helps too!

Q: How do I apply as a Bishounen for the auction?

A: You can apply online here: http://www.yaoicon.com/forms/form\_bishauction.html

Alert! Just applying doesnâ€™t mean youâ€™ll be accepted. The more detailed you are in your application without giving too much information the better your chances are. As stated by Isis:

---

As the competition for slots get fiercer, the less likely we are to choose you if you just want to stand there on stage. The more detailed the description of your costume and performance are in your application, the more likely you are to be selected.

If we've never seen you before, that serves as your audition. If you don't feel confident that you will be prepared this time, what I would suggest is that you simply participate in other bishie related events, and just watch the auction and get an idea of what is expected.

Q: How do I know if I have been accepted for the Bishounen Auction?

A: Typically you'll receive an email from Isis in regards to your application. Whether you are, are not, or she needs more information for your approval. I believe it's normal for her to make her decision between 1-2 months before the convention. Make sure you give her an email that you check often when you apply. What helps Isis with her decision are various factors;

1 - Your looks. (Yes we're shallow. We're BISHI'S for crying out loud.)

2 - Your act. Be creative! (Your ability to draw in the crowd. If you're a horrible actor or you've been going through puberty for the last 5-6 years and you're planning to sing, save yourself the embarrassment. Bishi's don't do things anyone be embarrassed about—at least not in public.)

3 - A photo of you in the costume you anticipate to be used in your pre-auction performance. (Face it, if you're dressed as something undesirable—well, it's nuff said.)

4 - The last and near final decision (I say near final because there's always something you can do to get yourself hosed from the line up) is when you meet Isis in person at the convention. If, when you meet her and it's obvious you photoshopped your face 10 pounds because you thought you'd be in shape by Yaoi Con, you risk rejection. Being a Bishi is also about being honest.

Q: I received the approval email from Isis YAY! So now that I'm a Bishi for the Auction, what can I expect? Are there any basic things to keep in mind?

A: You can expect a lot of things. However being a Bishi is not always just about YOU. It's also about your customer service to the attendees.

Being a Bishounen is not just the auction and over. You will be on show for the entire weekend. Please be sure you want to dedicate this amount of time before you apply.

With that said, here are the highlights;

First and foremost, you can expect yourself to follow the Bishounen Code of Conduct. Yes, we have a code. (Arrr the Code, matey.) A short summary of "The Code" can be found on the bottom portion of the online Bishi application that you agreed to when you clicked. A more detailed description can be found in the contract you sign with your buyer at the auction.

You can expect to have a lot of pictures taken of you at any event you participate in. So don't be camera-shy!

At Bingo, Auction, Pictionary, or any other Bishounen event, expect fans (girls and guys) to want to see you in your skibis. So you shouldn't be skibi-shy.

Expect to be on your best behavior. When a real life Bishi gets angry and makes a scene, it's not as hot as would be in the doujinshi version. (Remember what I said about Bishi's not doing embarrassing things? Temper tantrums are one of those things unless it's part of your character.)

A quote about a Bishi on stage at the Auction:

To put it simply, (it's about) attentionwhoring. You're the star - so milk it for what it's worth, wear your best/coolest outfit or cosplay and put on a show. While you could just sit there and look pretty, the audience gets more mileage if you have a skit, show off some tricks, work that hot body, etc., like tpod said. :wink: You want the audience to pay top dollar for the luxury of carting you around on their arm.

Q: Is being a Bishi safe?

A: I would have to say 200% safe. If you're getting harassed because someone is behaving inappropriately, you'll want to tell any of the staff. If you can't find the staff, find another Bishi! We'll help you out. If no staff or Bishis are available, run to any other con attendee. Pick one that you like since s/he may usurp your contract since now you have a witness of the unacceptable behavior, and BAM! You instantly fall in love with them. I believe the offenders receive one warning. After that, their passes are revoked so as not to distract the Bishis from doing what they do—being beautiful!

---

As for being safe, yes. If you feel like you are being pressured to do something that would make you feel uncomfortable at ANY time, you may end the "date". Just find a Ycon staff member to assist you in this manner. We do not tolerate any sort of non-consensual advances. Of course the opposite is true as well. Bishies may not pressure their dates either.

How much does a Bishi typically go for?

Here's an answer from one of our Ycon vets:

Don't really expect any specific range. There's a lot of factors that will determine how high and how quickly the bids go (not just physical appearance/costume!) but stage presence, how well the audience responds to the skit, and so forth. Though some competition among the boys does make them try harder. ;)

What is the highest bid so far?

Currently I believe it is about $1700.

Lowest Bid?

I think it was $75!.

- Hiccups -

I wasn't chosen for the auction. I guess I can't be a Bishi.

Not so fast Negative Nancy! Hope lies in the quote below!

The good news is, even if you aren't chosen for the auction, there are other events during the weekend that we need Bishies for. We encourage you to participate in them as it lets us see what you can do. Think of it as an audition. And if you are a local and attend the local cons, come find us. We are happy to talk to you.

That's all I got for now. If I find other later, I'll be sure to add them in here. Any corrections that need to be done, let me know and I'll definitely fix it.

*petpetpet* Awww, you make mama so proud with this nice FAQ you created for the newbies :D

I have two corrections... I think the highest bid so far was $1500. Not $1700. Also, the lowest was... $40?? Does everyone remember Bondage Fairy from 2004??? XD Bane of Isis's existence!

---

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Gothkitti - 2007/08/16 16:53

For some reason, I keep thinking that Lestat made 1700 last year. o_O

The lowest bid I know of is 40, for the band (160, technically, but there were four of them... :P)

---

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Elysium - 2007/08/16 23:21

*purrs* Well ah fixed it. => Is it as you please now?

---

Re: How do we know if we've been accepted for auction?

Posted by Atrius - 2007/09/07 17:09

It's gettin' close to that time of year and I can't wait for all the bishie events! . . .all I'm gonna say is I'll be very saddened if no bishies use these songs..

<http://youtube.com/watch?v=R3jv2cUgt1M> ya gotta do the dance for this one, too.

<http://youtube.com/watch?v=fbGkxcY7YFU> um. . this one's not all that worksafe.

---

. . . .VERY saddened. :P

=====