Never been to a Yaoi-Con before...Yaori

I love yaoi and yuri but I've never been to a yaoi-con before. Is it any different than other con's?

Also am I allowed to Yaori with my friends at the yaoi-con. B/c at other con's I get yelled at by the admin. It's nothing much besides kissing, hugging, sitting on their lap, groping them, and tackling them while yelling "surprize butt sex". So is that allowed at the yaoi-con? :side:

:ohmy: personally I think you should leave that kind of behavior in your room. While Yaoi Con does focus on M/M action and is a little more mature in nature, you should behave yourselves in public. There won't be anyone under 18 within the con area itself, but we'll be at a hotel where families with younger kids might be staying. Just keep that in mind. :P

*EDIT*

Found the link to the code of conduct:

I would agree with bunofgovt, but really i dont know if it would matter if you were in actual con areas where outside guests were not aloud. Last year it was everywhere, while what you do in public is your own business i would hate to see the con staff get in toruble for our own little rampage sof random butt sex *YAY BUTT SEX* other than that welcome to yaoi con, you will have a blast awe...that sucks, cause they're a little uptight up there, I've helped out security before and as long as you're not TOO loud about it (and you're not doing that sort of thing to people you don't know), people get away with murder there at con. I've seen some things that even make ME raise an eyebrow and I've seen just about every stupid thing a person can do to themselves and to others. Hell, one of my friends threw me down and dry humped me infront of the fan market, all that happened was a photo shoot where everyone in that part of the hotel started taking photos. Just remember strangers aren't you're friends and may not want to be touched, so behave yourself around them, but what you do to your friends is your own business and if you piss them off (or get to loud with them and get in trouble) that's your own fault.

Use some judgment

OO honey, we're real friendly. you just need to find the right people. I am a future teacher, I LOVE to help people and I really try not to be TOO scary...just look for the weirdo with all the scarfs and stuff in her hair (Wow that sounds weird Oo) and ask me ta help ya out and I'll throw myself off a cliff to help you.
